AGED MAN SEEKS SON FROM MEXICO

James A. Carter Found. Richmond, Kentucky, Changed After Fifty Years.

Driven From Durango Venerable Refugee Asks Aid of El Paso Police in Locating Only Relative.

James A. Carter, bent with the weight of his nearly seventy years, wandered into police headquarters yesterday afternoon seeking assistance in an effort to locate his son, Santiago Carter, whom he left in El Paso some two weeks ago.

The story related to Captain Greet by the aged man was indeed a pathetic one. Carter has lived in Durango many years. His son and the latter's wife and family were born there. Recently, for political reasons, he says, they were driven from their home, losing the savings of a lifetime. On July 1 they arrived in El Paso.

RICHMOND CHANGED IN HALF CENTURY.

Not wishing to be a burden on his son, the father decided to visit his old home at Richmond, Ky. He was furnished with money for the trip by United States Consul at Jaures.

Carter told the police captain that he was but a lad when he left Kentucky, and in all the years he had never found time to return. Reaching Richmond, which when he had last seen it, more than half a century ago, was a struggling little hamlet in which he knew every one. Carter was amazed to find a thriving city of many thousands of people. But among the thousands there was none who remembered the aged refugee from Mexico. His relatives were long since dead and forgotten.

With his heart filled with sorrow, the old man again turned his face toward the West, where the only friends he had known for so many years were located. Reaching El Paso, he went to the hotel where he had left his son, but the latter had left, and no one seemed to know where he had gone.

Captain Greet at once offered to help the old man, and detailed an officer on the case, Carter in the meanwhile being made comfortable at the station.

Investigation disclosed that at Santiago Carter and family had registered and remained a few days at the Simona hotel, on South El Paso street. The manager of the place told the police that Carter had moved away without giving any information as to where he was going. The man believed, however, that his former guest was still in the city.

The younger Carter is described as 5 feet 6 inches in height, with dark hair and dark eyes, weighing 150 pounds. He is 24 years of age and a carpenter, was born in Mexico and speaks no English. Mrs. Carter's first name is Cristina and the four children are all small.

Last night Captain Greet arranged for the elder Carter to stop at the Simona hotel pending the result of the search for the son. The old man declares that, despite his advanced age, he is a good carpenter and is able and anxious to work and does not wish to be a burden upon the city or upon his son in the event the latter is located.—El Paso, Texas, Times.

Infection And Insect Bites Dangerous.

Mosquitoes, flies and other insects, which breed quickly in garbage piles, ponds of stagnant water, barns, musty places, etc., are carriers of disease. Every time they bite you, they inject poison into your system from which some dread disease may result. Get a bottle of Sloan's Liniment. It is antiseptic and a few drops will neutralize the infection caused by insect bites or rusty nails. Sloan's Liniment disinfects Cuts, Bruises and Sores. You can not afford to be without it in your home. Money back if not satisfied. Only 25c. at your Drug gist.

A right-handed writer named Wright, In writing "write" always wrote "rite." Where he meant to write "right," If he'd written "right" right Wright would not have wrought rot writing "rite."

A canny young canner of Cannee, One morning observed to his granny. "A canner can can A lot of things, gran, But a canner can't can a can, can 'e?" —[Tid Bits.

No Owner of 200 Cars Wheat. Two hundred car loads of wheat are standing in the Santa Fe railroad yards at Galveston, Texas, without an owner. Some of them have been there for three weeks, yet the person who consigned them cannot be found and no bill of lading has been received. Efforts are being made to locate the owner, as it is believed the wheat came from some point in Kansas.

Congressmen Are Crafters.

The House, in yielding to the Senate in the matter of the 20 cent mileage grab, goes upon record as being willing to accept graft after having unctuously declared against it.

The public, which has every right to be as cynical about the actions of Congress which affects the pocketbooks of Congressmen as it is when there is legislation adverse to the interests of the masses and advantageous to certain interests, will hardly credit the House with strenuous probity.

The cost of travel per mile has decreased as the country has grown in wealth and population. One of the prime necessities of modern times is transportation. Its reasonableness in cost is a matter of the greatest public importance. Congress has shown itself awake to this fact and has forwarded the popular movement to bring down the cost of both freight and passenger service.

It costs no more to haul a Congressman than it does to haul a man in private life who pays his own transportation expenses. The mileage grab is, therefore, nothing more or less than petty graft upon the part of every member of Congress. In the aggregate it amounts to a good deal, but its acceptance is more lamentable because of its viciousness in principle than because of the effect upon the treasury.

Ship subsidy, a high protective tariff, free tolls for American ships passing through the Panama Canal are all examples of special privilege against which this Congress has sternly set its face. No honest defense of the mileage grab can be made by the most needy member of Congress. The most adroit member cannot make a plausible defense of it. Congress has simply declined to quit grafting. That is all there is to it. Honor to those whose names are recorded as having voted against the greedy majority.—Exchange.

Dead Letter Office Closed.

The "dead letter" office in the postal department at Washington is no more. The last sale of old letters and parcels was recently held and realized $4,500. Eighty employees were discharged or transferred to other departments, and Uncle Sam is now conducting his "letter business" more efficiently.

The office was really abolished because of the big decrease in lost, misdirected or unsigned pieces of mail, and because letters addressed to persons who cannot be found are more speedily disposed of by opening machines and quick clerks. But while the "dead letter" office is to be abolished, the misdirected mail matter in the future is to be distributed in 15 cities throughout the country. For instance if a letter is mailed from Springfield, O., to Albany, N. Y., and the address is incorrect and there is no return address on the envelope, the letter will be sent to Chicago, where it will be opened. If information as to the name of the sender is written therein, the letter will be forwarded back to Springfield.

To Benjamin Franklin probably belongs the distinction of starting the dead letter division of the postoffice. When the seat of the Federal government was in Philadelphia, Franklin had a bureau where misdirected letters were examined. The dead letter office was established in 1825. Before 1800 few detailed records were kept of the receipts in the dead letter office, although one old book in the department showed that in 1830 there were 380,000 letters referred to that bureau. In 1850, in response to a Senate resolution, the Postmaster General reported that the receipts of parcels and letters for the year numbered 2,500,000.

In 1875 there were 29 men and 50 women employed in this bureau and the office was mentioned as "a model of industry and punctuality."

Last year the force consisted of about 180 persons and more than 12,000,000 pieces of mail matter were handled, most of it being returned to the senders.

The new Way ~
A Hoosier Cabinet makes a Model Kitchen

Why Do 700,000 Women Own Hoosier Cabinets?

When you know that 700,000 women use Hoosier Kitchen Cabinets three times every day, doesn't it suggest to you that you need this drudgery-saver in YOUR kitchen?

Figure it out to yourself this way: Would they have bought these cabinets without convincing themselves that they SAVE MILES OF STEPS and hours of time? Would so many have bought them at all if users hadn't told others and thus influenced their friends to buy them.

Since this means that more Hoosier Cabinets have been sold than all other 125 makes of cabinets combined, isn't it proof enough that the Hoosier is the best cabinet on the market?

When you see how the Hoosier groups four cupboards around a large metal table and places 400 articles at your fingers' ends so you can sit down and work -AND REST while working—you'll want one of these "White Beauties."

Come pick one out today.
